WHAT'S NEW

Winter is just starting, so now is a good time to build up your resistance with our immunity products (page 9).

The results of our Omega 3 ratio testing are back and David explains the results (Pages 4/5).

We have rebranded our Potion No. 9 as Men's Boost to more correctly reflect the wide range of benefits this product has to offer. It's not just for libido but for prostate health and muscle development. Our product is very good value for money when compared to other similar products. Potion No. 9 is still available to purchase, while stocks last, if you prefer.

Denise's article is about testosterone and Nadia is covering irritable women syndrome (after her last article covering irritable men syndrome, it only seems fair).

Shaun is finishing his latest book on medical cannabis, which is very topical at the moment, so we have asked him to do an article on the subject. We have approval to sell his book and we hope to have it available in the next catalogue.

Kind regards

Mike Coory

HEALTH HOUSE IS PROUD TO SUPPORT THE HISTORIC MUSCLE & SALOON CARS

Our staff testing of the critical Omega 6 to Omega 3 ratios – what did we find?

We've had questions from some customers a little confused by my article in the Jan-Feb catalogue on 'Why saturated fat is healthy for you and vegetable oils can be harmful'.

You may remember I explained how too much Omega 6 fat (mainly from seed oils and margarine) and too little Omega 3 fat (mainly from fish) causes inflammation in our body and depresses our immune system. This is a massive cause of serious health disorders and is mostly to do with the ratio of Omega 6 to Omega 3.

The Omega 6 to Omega 3 ratio

This is the total amount of Omega 6 oils in our blood compared to the Omega 3 oils. The ideal diet ratio is 4 parts Omega 6, to 1 part (or more) Omega 3 oil. This 4 to 1 ratio is difficult to achieve with our modern diet. NZ levels are claimed to be as high as 16 to 1 and American levels even higher at 20 to 1. These figures are alarming, for when our Omega 6 to Omega 3 ratio exceeds 9 to 1, our immune system begins to shut down.

So 10 of our Health House staff members (along with Mike and myself) agreed to be tested to see what our ratios were.

The results were interesting, but before we look at them, some of you asked if we should avoid Omega 6. The simple answer is no – Omega 6 fat is essential for energy and for our body to use Omega 3.

Omega 6 only becomes harmful when there's not enough Omega 3 to process it properly and keep our immune system in top order.

Too low a level of Omega 3 in the blood stream greatly increases our risk of cancer and inflammation disorders like arthritis, also cardio-vascular disease and depression.

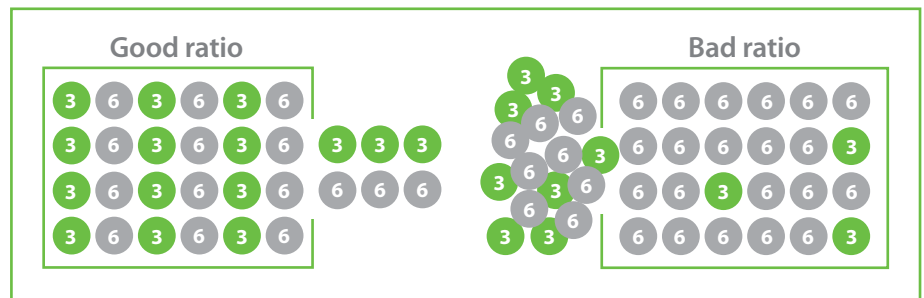

Blood testing our staff

We located a reputable American laboratory that performs Omega 6/3 tests and ordered blood test kits for the twelve of us. These tests were rather expensive at around $200 a person. A medical professional took four blood samples from each one of us and we sent the kits off to the laboratory.

We were keen to see the results when they finally arrived – our office staff are all reasonably health conscious but not fanatics like me.

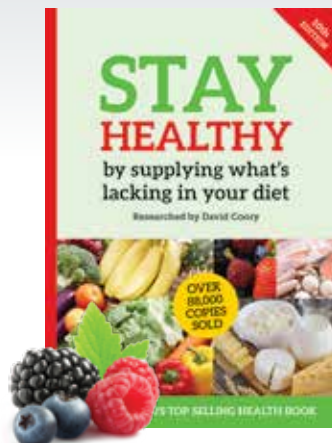

Results

As you can see from the results, none of us were anywhere near the commonly reported dangerous 16 to 1 ratio, but we weren't as good as I'd hoped.

I was the only one within the healthy 4 to 1 ratio (3.6 to 1). I take two fish oil capsules daily (CoQ10-Omega 3 and Omega 3 Fish oil), one Evening Primrose and Flaxseed oil capsule and also eat two small cans of salmon per week. But I shouldn't be too smug, for truly superior health, experts recommend a 2 to 1 ratio of Omega 6 to Omega 3.

Mike's not fond of fish and generally avoids it, so he was pleasantly surprised at his reasonable result (5.7 to 1). Of our female staff, half take fish oil regularly and the other half don't. This is listed on the chart to the right.

The Omega 3 index

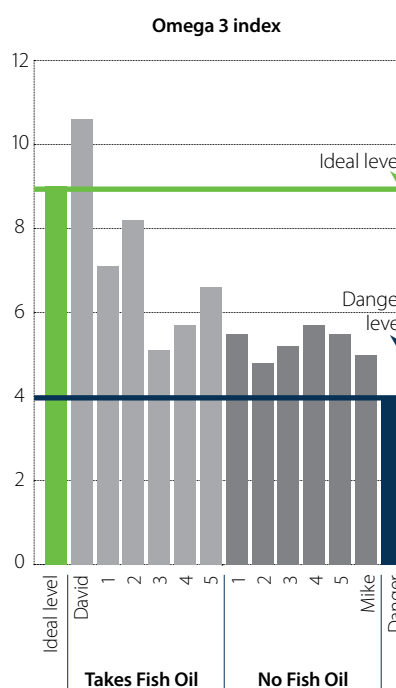

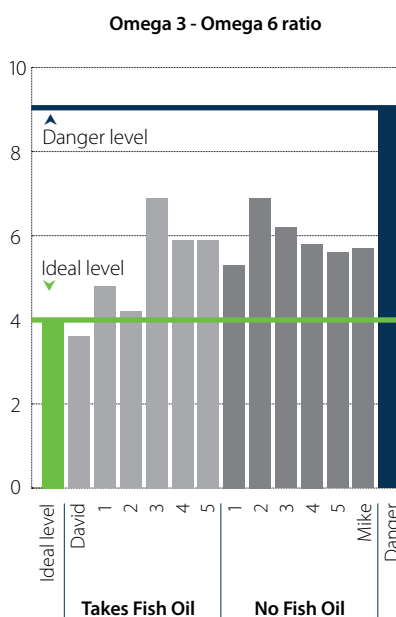

While the ratio is important, the total level of Omega 3 in the blood is equally important. There's not much advantage in having a good ratio of Omega 6 to Omega 3 if both are low. The tests also reported the Omega index which is the total percentage of all five Omega 3's in our blood. This should ideally be above 9%. The results are below. Here again I took the honours but only just, at 10.6%.

Omega 3 absorption varies from person to person

One unusual feature of our test findings, is that two of our staff who took fish oil had both low levels of Omega 3 and a poor ratio. A recent in-depth study of Omega 3 may explain this. The study tested actual blood levels of Omega 3 in people after they took 1gm of fish oil. Surprisingly, they found huge differences in the absorption rates from person to person. Eventually they concluded it was due largely to genetics.

The recommended daily net amount of Omega 3 is 1gm. This normally means taking two capsules daily of double strength fish oil.

Some of our staff, including Mike and I are working on improving our Omega 3 ratios. (I now take an extra fish oil capsule every evening.) We'll do another test further down the track and see if it makes a difference. Perhaps somebody will topple me from my pole position. Looks like some fish for Mike.

Soothe a dry scratchy throat

100% natural honey and blackcurrant flavoured throat spray.

Our Health House Throat Spray syrup is all natural and non-alcohol based. It tastes great and is suitable for the whole family. When those respiratory problems occur and a dry scratchy throat threatens to spoil your day, try our convenient 50ml bottle of Throat Spray.

Being honey based it has a pleasant taste and only a couple of sprays should soothe your throat.

Along with the antiseptic properties of echinacea to support your recovery and healing, we have also added colloidal silver, renowned for its antiseptic benefits, blackcurrant juice which contains high concentrations of anthocyanins, antioxidants and a high vitamin C content. Finally, a dash of peppermint oil to help clear your head and soothe your dry scratchy throat.

DIRECTIONS:

Spray as often as required, but it is recommended you do not exceed 20ml (80 sprays) per day.

The bottle contains about 300 sprays.

Due to the syrup containing honey, we do not recommend it for infants (under two years old).

Irritable Women Syndrome

Following my article in the last issue of the catalogue about irritable male syndrome, I thought it was a good idea to write about irritable women syndrome in this issue.

It's common for women to start feeling more irritable and less tolerant especially as they go through menopause, and even beyond.

During and after menopause, oestrogen levels are lower, which can actually mean we have less control over our emotions. Also, our levels of oxytocin (also known as the love hormone) drop, this may explain why the people we love just seem to grate on our last nerve more than they ever have before!

There are a number of things you can try which can help to stabilise your mood and emotions, and hopefully ensure that you still have a happy home life with your family.

Relaxation techniques

Meditation, mindfulness, deep breathing, yoga, stretching, tai chi or anything else that works for you. By relaxing your mind and body you can regulate your emotions and stress levels, as well as positively impacting a number of other areas in your life.

Naturally increase oxytocin

The 'love' or 'feel good' hormone can be increased simply by giving and receiving hugs, patting your cat or dog, or even with random acts of kindness towards others. Thankfully, chocolate works too! It releases dopamine that can increase oxytocin levels.

Reduce caffeine

Caffeine can contribute to these mood swings – have you ever started to feel more impatient not long after finishing your coffee? It's a good idea to reduce your coffee intake and increase your water intake, making sure you have at least 6-8 glasses of pure water each day (sorry but coffee and tea don't count towards this!).

Diet

Excess sugar and processed foods impact your blood sugar negatively, which in turn affects your moods quite dramatically. This makes it much harder to feel calm, patient and tolerant. Focussing on fresh, whole foods will help to keep both your blood sugar and moods stable.

NATURAL REMEDIES

Maca

Maca is packed with nutrients and helps to regulate your oestrogen levels, modulate stress hormones and helps with sleep and energy levels, all which will contribute to a better mood and more patience.

Sage

Sage has a positive impact regulating your body's core temperature (helping to prevent hot flashes), while also helping to prevent mood swings. You can make fresh or dried sage leaves into a tea if you prefer this to a supplement.

Vitamin C

Vitamin C is a necessary cofactor for oxytocin production, and because this is not stored in the body it's important to take it daily.

Vitamin D

Have you ever noticed how much better your mood is in summer vs. winter? Vitamin D is an automatic mood booster. It regulates your emotions, helps with sleep and fatigue and even cognitive function.

Triple strength fish oil for brain and artery health

Our Omega 3 Fish Oil capsules contain responsibly sourced quality European omega 3 oil.

The highly concentrated soft gel fish oil capsules come from responsibly sourced fish stocks, with the fish oil suppliers operating within the global standards (IFFO).

Importantly, the level of omega 6 is low, 60mg, making this an excellent supplement to raise your omega 3 levels and improve your crucial omega 3/omega 6 ratio.

The ratio of omega 6 to omega 3 is important. For good health we should ideally have equal parts omega 6 to omega 3. However the current New Zealand average is estimated to be around 18 parts omega 6 to one part omega 3.

This is because omega 6 is readily available in our food, whereas omega 3 is much harder to obtain from our diet.

Medical Cannabis in New Zealand

It is quite incredible what can be achieved by modern medicine. Many cancers can be cured, we can see inside the body in amazing detail with a variety of hi-tech machines and people are living longer and healthier than ever before. But the biggest story in medicine at the moment is whether people should be legally able to use a plant that has been used medically for at least 5,000 years.

In New Zealand cannabis has become legal for medical use, with legislation passed in December last year and regulations on how this will work due to be finalised in December of this year.

The key questions are: does it work and is it safe? The answers are “definitely” and “mostly”. There has been a lot of research into the medical effects of cannabis, but nowhere near enough to fully understand just how effective it is or how to use it optimally. A big reason for the lack of certainty is that there are over 500 compounds in cannabis, and yet most of the clinical studies have looked at pharmaceutical products which have extracted only one or two of these compounds. In general, natural products are effective due to the many ingredients that they contain working together synergistically. If a natural product such as cannabis is substantially altered, a high proportion or even all of the effectiveness may be lost.

Despite this there is solid evidence that cannabis can help with nausea and vomiting from chemotherapy, chronic pain, spasticity from multiple sclerosis, sleep problems and anxiety issues.

Further research is likely to find many other proven health benefits.

On the flipside, although no-one has ever died from a cannabis overdose (unlike opiate medicines which kill tens of thousands of people every year), using large amounts of cannabis at a young age can cause severe mental health issues, smoking lots of cannabis may cause lung cancer and using cannabis and then driving can lead to fatal crashes.

The main medical and legal bodies are in favour of the medical use of cannabis. The New Zealand Medical Association (NZMA) supports medical cannabis as long as the products are of high quality and clinical studies have been undertaken to show that they are safe and effective. The New Zealand Law Commission has recommended cannabis be made available for medical use.

The New Zealand public are certainly in favour - a recent poll of 1,750 New Zealanders found that 71% of those surveyed supported medicinal cannabis legalization and other surveys put this figure at over 90%.

Testosterone

We know that men and women are different in so many weird and wonderful ways, however right at the beginning of an embryo's development, males and females are the same. Both have a pair of identical undifferentiated gonads, which have the potential to develop into testes or ovaries.

It has been identified as a single gene on the male Y chromosome that binds to the DNA of the gonads, causing them to become testes, and if the gene is not present ovaries will develop.

Following that choice, it is the hormones that organise everything through the internal and external sexual development, including the brain, in preparation for later activation in life, during puberty.

Testosterone is classified as a steroidal androgen and is the key male sex hormone that develops masculinisation, growth of facial hair, lowering the voice, fertility, and muscle and fat distribution. Pubic and underarm hair is produced by androgens from the adrenals, which both sexes produce. Both types of glands (testes and ovaries) produce a small amount of the hormone of the other sex.

Testosterone has two specific actions - androgenic (masculinising) and anabolic (tissue building). Testosterone alone will not build muscle, we also require adequate protein, essential fatty acids, vitamins and minerals. The muscle also must have work to develop and strengthen. A lean body mass helps control weight and will support energy pathways as it is more efficient at burning fuel.

The normal range of testosterone varies widely with individual biochemical differences. When in excess the fearlessness often seen in men, can turn to violence and aggression with paranoia type reactions.

Testosterone production is a substantial process with many metabolic pathways, starting with the hypothalamus and pituitary in the brain, via other hormones, to stimulate the testes into action.

Hormone production naturally slows down with age and testosterone supplementation is used for specific medical conditions.

Synthetic anabolic steroid use for growth of muscle in various sports usually ends sadly. Side effects can be huge including heart and liver damage, impotence and loss of libido.

All hormone health is reliant on good nutritional wellness. Nutrients such as zinc and vitamin C may not directly stimulate testosterone production, however vitamin C is essential for the structural support of testicular tissue, without which it could not function properly and zinc is required to maintain the task of the Leydig cells, where testosterone is produced, within the testes and is a major mineral for quality and motility of sperm.

The nutrient superstar

Magnesium is perhaps one of the most overlooked minerals. With a recommended daily intake of between 300mg and 400mg for adults, are you getting enough?

Your body requires a high level of magnesium and it is critical to maintain heart health.

Without sufficient amounts of magnesium, your body simply cannot function properly. Unfortunately, this essential nutrient is lacking in most New Zealand diets.

Magnesium helps relax your mind, supports healthy blood pressure and contributes to a sound sleep.

Magnesium also helps in the absorption of calcium and plays a key role in the strength of your bones and teeth.

A high quality, organic chelated mineral blend of Boron and Selenium

These two important trace minerals are lacking in most New Zealand soils and are absolutely vital for our health.

New Formula

In this new formula we have replaced the selenium with selenium yeast. When yeast is grown in a selenium-enriched environment, it absorbs the selenium and converts it into the organic form of selenium naturally found in food (selenomethionine) along with two other forms (selenite and selenate).

Each of these forms of selenium have specific therapeutic benefits and based on our current scientific knowledge, the best form of supplemental selenium is believed to be a combination of these three.

The yeast's organic conversion of the selenium, helps your body metabolise and absorb a greater amount of the three forms of selenium.

The National Cancer Institute requested selenium yeast for use in its research and the Life Extension Foundation (USA), recommends the use of a mixture of several forms of selenium.

Selenium

Selenium is a powerful antioxidant that supports prostate health and fades brown skin spots. This essential trace mineral is good for your health and may help protect the body from the poisonous effects of heavy metals and other harmful substances.

Most people will be fine with the single form of selenium in our CAA-Multi, but if you are looking for a more comprehensive selenium supplement (with three types of selenium) then this is the product for you.

Boron

Boron is an important mineral for bone and joint health, but is also lacking in our New Zealand soil.

Most people can get sufficient boron from their diet along with our CAA-Multi, but some people may require more, sometimes up to 9mg a day to support joint health and mobility. So for an extra boron boost this is the product.

Would you like a deep, restful and healing sleep?

You can, with this improved Melrest formula.

It contains three natural active ingredients for supporting sleep.

Tart Cherry Extract: over 13kgs of fresh tart cherries are used to make 1kg of BerryShield™ Tart Cherry from Denmark. Berryshield™ test for the cherries' naturally occurring anthocyanin levels.

Chamomile Powdered Extract: chamomile tea is great for supporting sleep, so we have added a more powerful organic 4:1 powdered extract from France.

Magnesium: deficiency of this important dietary component is common especially as we get older. Magnesium helps relax your mind and supports normal sleep patterns.

Melrest also contains honey and a natural cherry flavour, so enjoying a deep, restful healing sleep is not only easy, but can also taste great.

DIRECTIONS: 16ml (1 tablespoon or around 3 teaspoons), 30 minutes before bedtime. Not recommended during pregnancy, or for children under 12.

Colloidal Silver

Use our scientifically proven Colloidal Silver Liquid to enhance the health of your body. Colloidal Silver Liquid prevents the spread of bacteria and is a great healer.

Colloidal silver and bacteria

Hundreds of health disorders have been documented in medical journals as being successfully helped by taking or applying colloidal silver, and more are being added to the list all the time.

Colloidal silver allows the body's immune system to heal the body in an all natural way. It also helps the body cope with seasonal chills and ills especially when sprayed in the nose and mouth.

Colloidal silver can be used several ways; by drinking it, by holding it under the tongue, by a sprayer for the nose, throat and ears, or a soaked pad for skin ailments.

Is it safe?

It is very well tolerated and to our knowledge does not interact with any medical drug. It is odourless, non-stinging and suitable for the whole family when used as directed.

Silver has been used for thousands of years for a variety of purposes ranging from keeping food and liquids from spoiling, purifying water and more recently to coat medical dressings.

Joint, digestion and general health

Turmeric is a yellow spice often used in Indian cooking. It also has a long history of use in both Chinese and Hindu medicine.

The key active ingredient in turmeric is curcumin and is one of the most intensely studied bio-actives. Curcumin has been found to be supportive of a wide range of health conditions.

Careful research was undertaken prior to sourcing our Turmeric supplement. While you can buy this spice at the supermarket, you would require over a tablespoon of spice every day to get any benefit and even then, the low level of curcumin (less than 5% of the spice) is not easily absorbed.

We sourced a specially designed, easily absorbed 95% curcumin ingredient and blended it with piper nigrum (black pepper extract) to further enhance absorption.

How to support joint health naturally

Our Healthy Joints has been formulated to be the most effective glucosamine and chondroitin joint care product on the New Zealand market.

Choosing the right ingredients for your joint product is more important than many realise.

Recent research has shown that when sulphur-based marine glucosamine is combined in equal parts with chondroitin, extracted from shark cartilage, it is much more effective.

Due to the very high price of chondroitin derived from shark cartilage, it is rare to find a product on the New Zealand market with enough chondroitin to be fully effective. Both glucosamine and chondroitin are natural parts of our cartilage and our joint lubrication fluid.

Healthy Joints contains 400mg of natural glucosamine sulphate and 400mg of the highest quality chondroitin sulphate, plus we have added three nutrients - boron, organic silica and natural vitamin D.

We have also included MSM (methylsulfonylmethane), a very safe but vital component in joint care. It works with chondroitin to maintain the integrity of the cartilage and supports joint comfort.

The glucosamine we use in Healthy Joints is a natural substance, derived from shellfish and is found in and around the cells of your joint cartilage and connective tissue. Glucosamine helps improve lubrication and nutrition to your joints and protects cartilage from wear and tear.

Our high quality chondroitin is extracted from commercial species shark cartilage, which is why it costs so much. (A cheaper less effective form can be obtained from cow, pig or chicken cartilage). Chondroitin is also found naturally in normal joints and helps the cartilage of your joints to retain water, elasticity, resist compression and aids the lubrication of the joints. Chondroitin is also a major source of the protein building blocks used in your joints and helps form new cartilage.

As we age, these building blocks become in short supply, but are important for elasticity, resilience and maintaining the shock absorbing properties of your cartilage.

Cow colostrum is over 10 times richer than human colostrum in antibodies. These antibodies are the same as human antibodies and support the immune system to protect you against thousands of common immune threats.

People who take colostrum also report they get less seasonal ills and chills.

We source our colostrum from La Belle, one of the top colostrum suppliers in the world.
